The index and any associated data, information, access to an online portal<sup>1</sup> or material including back-testing data (the “Index Information”) provided to you by Bank of America (“BofA”)<sup>2</sup> by any means is proprietary, intended solely for the use of its direct recipient and must be kept strictly confidential. The possession and dissemination of the Index Information is permitted only where necessary for business purposes as agreed with BofA and on a strictly ‘need to know’ basis. Under no circumstances shall the Index Information be published, disseminated or conveyed, in whole or in part, to any third party without the prior written permission of BofA. The Index Information does not constitute or form part of any offer or invitation to subscribe for, underwrite or purchase investments and should not be considered a recommendation with respect to any such decision. To the fullest extent permitted by law, BofA disclaims all liability concerning (i) the truth, accuracy, and completeness of the Index Information; (ii) any change or update thereto; and (iii) suitability, appropriateness and/or terms of any investment to which the Index Information may relate, or from which it may be derived. Prospective investors are advised to conduct their own due diligence.
