

Be cyber secure: student scams

College students are often juggling classes, housing, jobs and internships while also taking on many new financial decisions. As you assume more responsibility, you may encounter scammers or cyber criminals who try to take advantage of you by offering services, items for sale or employment under false pretenses. Scammers use emotional triggers, like love, compassion, exhilaration or fear, to trick you into acting immediately and handing over money or personal information.

Scams targeting students can take many forms. Here are some common types to look out for:

- Fake listings for apartments, books, movers or other services.
- Student loan debt relief scams.
- Fake employment offers.
- Education money scams claiming unpaid tuition or other costs.
- Unsolicited scholarships and grants.
- Social media scams.

Be proactive:

- Be careful about what you post about yourself online, including personally identifiable information such as your address or cell phone number.
- Monitor your privacy settings on any online account.
- Verify any unexpected requests for info via phone, text, email, computer messages or social media through a verified website, a recent bill or statement or alternate phone number.
- Never share information with people you don't know, especially if they contacted you. Your personal information can be used by criminals to build a fake identity.
- Trust your instincts. If an offer looks too good to be true, it probably is.
- Remember that anyone can become a target for a scam, even if you do not have disposable income.
- Be wary if pressured to pay in ways that seem hard to trace or keep track of such as prepaid debit or gift card codes, wires, bank transfers or digital currency.

If you suspect you have been targeted:

- Don't delay. Act quickly if you think your passwords have been stolen, if you receive a changed password notification from a provider, or if your account access changes on apps.
- Freeze financial accounts that may be affected and inform credit bureaus.
- Know and follow your local laws and guidelines for cyber incidents.
- Document everything about the event. The more information you have, the better armed you may be to assist an investigation by your bank and law enforcement officials, and the better prepared you will be against future events.

Visit www.bankofamerica.com/security to learn how to help protect yourself and those closest to you.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Neither Bank of America nor its affiliates provide information security or information technology (IT) consulting services. This material is provided “as is”, with no guarantee of completeness, accuracy, timeliness or of the results obtained from the use of this material, and without warranty of any kind, express or implied, including, but not limited to warranties of performance, quality and fitness for a particular purpose. This material should be regarded as general information on information security and IT considerations and is not intended to provide specific information security or IT advice nor is it any substitute for your own independent investigations. If you have questions regarding your particular IT system or information security concerns, please contact your IT or information security advisor.

Bank of America Private Bank is a division of Bank of America, N.A., Member FDIC, and a wholly-owned subsidiary of BofA Corp.

Banking products are provided by Bank of America, N.A., and affiliated banks, Members FDIC, and wholly-owned subsidiaries of BofA Corp.

“Bank of America” and “BofA Securities” are the marketing names used by the Global Banking and Global Markets divisions of Bank of America Corporation. Lending, other commercial banking activities, and trading in certain financial instruments are performed globally by banking affiliates of Bank of America Corporation, including Bank of America, N.A., Member FDIC. Trading in securities and financial instruments, and strategic advisory, and other investment banking activities, are performed globally by investment banking affiliates of Bank of America Corporation (“Investment Banking Affiliates”), including, in the United States, BofA Securities, Inc. and Merrill Lynch Professional Clearing Corp., both of which are registered broker-dealers and Members of SIPC, and, in other jurisdictions, by locally registered entities. BofA Securities, Inc. and Merrill Lynch Professional Clearing Corp. are registered as futures commission merchants with the CFTC and are members of the NFA.

Investment products:

Are Not FDIC Insured	Are Not Bank Guaranteed	May Lose Value
----------------------	-------------------------	----------------

© 2024 Bank of America Corporation. All rights reserved. 6692622